

Probing Nuclear Structure and Dynamics at the Electron-Ion Collider

Rebecca Corley | Sonny Mantry

- The Electron-Ion Collider (EIC), or atom smasher, is designed to probe the internal structure of protons and neutrons via electron-nucleus collisions.
- This project uses computer simulations to analyze processes at the EIC and compare to theoretical predictions.